THE FRANCHISE TAX LOT.

The State Legislature has been in session 30 days, yet William H. Phelps, chief of the corporation lobby, said to the Jefferson City correspondent of the Post-Dispatch: "We will know the fate of franchise legislation inside of 30 days."

The battle for franchise taxation was fought during the last session of the Legislature. It was defeated in the Senate. It was strangled to death at the dictation of the corrupt lobby which controlled the last Senate.

But the fight was won among the people. It was won in the mind of every honest, unprejudiced citizen.

The Democratic party in convention pledged its representatives to franchise taxation.

The Republican party pledged its representatives to franchise taxation.

Gov. Dockery in the campaign pledged his administration to franchise taxation. In his inaugural address he recognized the binding nature of this pledge by recommending the passage of a franchise tax law among the first measures of the session.

The people of Missouri accepted the pledge of the Democratic party (a good faith). They defeated nearly all of the men seeking re-election who had voted against franchise taxation. They expected from the State Legislature, among the first measures, a genuine and just franchise tax law.

But 30 days after the opening of the Legislature Chief Lobbyist Phelps says that the fate of franchise legislation is uncertain. It is known to be uncertain. It is even thought, by well-posed men, to be certain of defeat. The lobbyists and attorneys of the franchise corporations are boasting that a franchise tax law cannot be passed.

That the legislators are hesitating, dillying and dickered is manifest. The evidence of the lack of purpose to carry out the will of the people and keep the party pledge is plain. When the second hearing on franchise taxation was held before the Joint Ways and Means Committee of the Senate and House most of the committee members were dallying attendance at a gubernatorial reception. The people's interests are being treated with indifference or contempt.

The excuse for this dallying on the part of legislators is that there is a confusion of mind with regard to the kind of law needed and the kind of property that ought to be taxed. It is claimed that the minds of the legislators are befuddled.

If the minds of the legislators are confused and befuddled they have been brought to that state by the corporation lobby. There is no confusion in the public mind on the subject. The kind of property to be taxed was clearly defined in the discussion of the subject before the last Legislature. It has been defined repeatedly by the Post-Dispatch. It was defined by the Democratic State Board of Equalization. It was defined by the Governor and Attorney-General during the last session of the Legislature. It has been defined by courts and the Legislatures of other States, notably that of New York. In his inaugural address Gov. Dockery defined it so plainly that the wayfaring man, though a fool, cannot err therein. He said:

And among the first measures which I most earnestly commend to your favorable consideration is the passage of a law providing for the assessment and taxation of corporate franchises of a public or quasi-public nature, which enjoy privileges practically exclusive. In legislating upon this important subject care should be taken not to include those corporations of a minor, private character, the franchise privileges of which are of such a general nature as to add no material commercial value.

But if the kind of law required and the kind of property to be taxed had not been clearly defined the State Legislature would find abundant guidance in the speeches of the representatives of franchise-holding corporations who are seeking to defeat genuine franchise taxation.

In the hearing before the Joint Ways and Means Committee of the Senate and House the franchise-holding corporations were represented by Judge H. S. Priest, paid attorney of the St. Louis Transit Co.; Isaac H. Lomberger, Vice-President of the Laclede Gas Co.; and William H. Phelps, professional railroad lobbyist.

These representatives of franchise-holding corporations advised the legislators not to tax franchises, but if a franchise tax were levied to levy it on all corporations alike—private corporations without exclusive privileges and public and quasi-public corporations holding monopoly franchises for public utilities, the value of which is absorbed in millions of dollars' worth of stocks and bonds, not less than $400,000,000 of which escape taxation in the State. They told the legislators that there was no taxable value in a franchise granted by the State for a public utility. Yet Judge Priest represents a street railway consolidation which, on an investment of not more than $35,000,000, has issued securities to the amount of $10,000,000. Is there no taxable value in its franchises?

Do legislators believe what these representatives of franchise-holding corporations told them? Do they think that they stand for the interests of the people and are advancing just laws that will equalize taxation and place a fair share of the tax burden on franchise corporations?

Judge Priest himself was so conscious of the weakness of his case that he did not ask for a verdict—he asked for a postponement for two years. That is what the tax-dodging corporations want—postponement. They want to prevent the passage of any franchise tax law, or to secure a tax that will be so unjust and obnoxious that all legitimate business interests will be arrayed against it.

The truth is the plea of confusion and befuddlement is a mere evasion. It is a pretense, a cloak for a lobby dictation. The legislators whose minds are befuddled on this question is unfit to make laws.

The people will not accept any such plea in justification or mitigation of the failure of the Legislature to do its duty. If the Legislature fails to pass a genuine and just franchise tax law the people will know that the failure is due to lobby influences.

In the city of St. Louis the Democratic party asks the people to trust it with the task of reforming the municipal government. It expects the people to give the party a vote of confidence in the spring election. What is the ground of that expectation?

Under the administration of Gov. Stephens Police Commissioners the police force has been turned into a partisan political machine with scandalous results.

Under the Nesbit law passed by a Democratic Legislature and Election Commissioners appointed by Gov. Stephens the St. Louis elections were turned into a carnival of fraud.

Under the Excise Commissioner appointed by Gov. Stephens saloon dens have flourished in defiance of law.

If the Democratic majority in the Legislature shall again betray the people, violate the pledge of the party and yield to the dictation of a corrupt lobby, what ground of appeal for popular confidence will the Democratic party have?

If the Democrats misuse the power they have how can they expect the people to trust them with more power?

Newspaper criticism is designed to correct an evil, prevent a wrong or set an erring public official, who is capable of good work, right. It is useless to waste time and space on Mayor Ziegenhein—he is beyond criticism.

THE LOVELY LADY PAN.

A long time ago—to be specific more than 1900 years—the lady Fan and the Son of Heaven, Emperor of China, were lovers.

But he was fickle and she feared to lose him. So she sent him a fan with these verses in which her love and foreboding are apparent. They are in Herodotus' "History of Chinese Literature."

"O fair white silk, fresh from the weaver's loom, Clear as the frost, bright as the winter snow, See! friendship fashions out of thee a fan, Round as the round moon shines in heaven above. At home, abroad, a close companion thou, Stirring at every move the grateful gale. And yet I fear, ah, me! that autumn chills, Cooling the dying summer's torrid rage, Will see thee laid neglected on the shelf, All thought of bygone days like them bygone."

Quite human, wasn't she, the lady Pan? And quite womanly according to modern western ideas.

The people of the western world are prone to consider the Chinese outlandish folks hardly to be accepted as of the same species as themselves. And in pursuance of this idea they treat them in all manner of ways.

Isn't it about time to turn away from Chinese vices and adopt their virtues? Their civilization is said to be pretty much what it was when the Lady Pan wrote her verses, so, may they not claim, at least, the consideration of humanity?

If we are not to admit Russian bear sugar free of duty, the Russians will increase duties upon our hardware, cutlery, etc. Now, shall we destroy our Russian hardware trade, or shall we knock our infant bear sugar industry on the head? Is one interest more deserving than the other?

The Philadelphia judge who has decided that a doctor should leave his patient to die rather than to answer the summons of a court would doubtless exempt his own family physician from such a ruling. He may not be entirely depraved.

The Filipino now says to himself: "Shall I be good and hold office? Can I depend upon the promise that I shall be eligible to office if I am good?" If he has no statistics of the population of Ohio, perhaps he will decide to be good.

If candidates for United States Senator who buy Legislators would be to be banished to Guam, the United States would be benefited quite as much as it is by exiling little Filipinos.

The lobby lobbies appear to be in charge of the Tennessee Legislature. Though the Senate Judiciary committee recommended the bill restraining them, it has been tabled.

There are 1600 witnesses in a single Pennsylvania murder case. "Murder will out," but it ought not to be quite so hard to prove.

POST-DISPATCH SNAP SHOTS.

Uncle Henry is distinctly not a World's Fair Mayor.

Should Mrs. Nation extend herself to the distilleries and breweries, what would become of the country?

If his royal mother placed a sprig of shamrock in her bonnet, the new King should hardly hesitate to put one in his hat.

In naming his automobile "The White Ghost," W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., forgot that most men would rather see the ghost walk than to see it run.

Mrs. Nation can wreck a saloon with more facility than a man with a jag. Even the cavorting cowboy with his terrible gun dwindles in a comparison.

Instead of "Great Britain and Ireland," why is not the word "Briterin" used? Instead of "British," why not "Britisher"? Now that there is a new King of the Isles, it is a good time to make these changes.

It is asserted that the Vice-President-elect has slain twelve lions and eight lynx cats, and those who don't believe it can see the marks of a lion's teeth on Teddy's gun barrel. Clearly, Ted is to be the nation's idol in 1904.

As a second skunk farm to be established in Indiana, the supply of "Alaskan sable" will be considerably increased and possibly the zephyrs blowing from the direction of the Hoosier State will have more substance to them.

THE MAN WHO WAS NEVER FOUND.

From the Parisian Police Archives.

M. SCIPION DESRUILLLES kept a small shop in the Rue de Seine, Paris. He had a wife, but no children.

He was a small tradesman, and his wife a large, coarse-looking woman, quite capable of taking care of shop and Scipion. Scipion's past life had been singularly uneventful.

One day, ten years before the time of his introduction to the reader, Scipion had gone to the theater, and after the performance had taken Madame to a restaurant and treated her to a little supper.

Returning home, after he was in bed, Scipion heard a noise in the shop, and went down himself with a bootjack, went down, and, muffled by the assistance of the hastily summoned police, captured a burglar.

The man, who said he was an Italian, named Vedova, and was dressed in a long, lousious tunic, but could give no good account of himself. Scipion prosecuted him vigorously, and he was convicted and sent to prison.

Two years later Scipion met Vedova in a cafe and had him arrested as an escaped convict.

As a part of 1893 Scipion received official notification from Martineau that his cousin, who was on the island, had left him heir to all his property which was a large estate in the south of France.

Desruillles was further informed by the notary at St. Jean, that it would be necessary for him to come to Paris and administer on the estate in order to receive his great loss and inconvenience and many other things.

The bourgeois of Paris is not a traveling character, but he can help it. Scipion, who was a small tradesman, committed the mistake of going to the south of France to see his cousin, who was on the island, and he was arrested as a vagabond.

When Desruillles reached Martineau and went to St. Jean, he found a great deal of trouble. There was nothing for him to do but go to the island and see his cousin.

The brig was to sail in a day for New Orleans, and Scipion determined to go. Clear as the frost, bright as the winter snow, and the steamship to have, in round as the round moon shines in heaven above.

At home, abroad, a close companion thou, stirring at every move the grateful gale. And yet I fear, ah, me! that autumn chills, cooling the dying summer's torrid rage, will see thee laid neglected on the shelf, all thought of bygone days like them bygone.

Arrived in New Orleans, Scipion determined to go to the island and see his cousin. He put up at a boarding house in the French quarter, and he was arrested as a vagabond.

When Scipion was arrested, he was taken to a police station, and he was arrested as a vagabond. He was taken to a police station, and he was arrested as a vagabond.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

It isn't near so hard to train a wife as it is to color a meerschaum pipe.

There never was a woman who, at some time in her life, didn't wear some false hair. A man never feels real intimate with a woman till she has scolded him for swearing before her.

The average man never knows for sure that he is in love till he has it so bad that he doesn't know anything else.—New York Press.

A TRIUMPH OF MEMORY.

"I am sinking for the third time!" shrieked the woman in the water. "Are you positive of this?" asked the youth who was waiting to rescue her, "I am at this moment distinctly recalling everything in my past life, and I can see the real color of my hair as it was but yesterday."

"Say no more!" cried the youth, plunging forth into the icy flood. "The spectators cheered wildly, for never in their lives had they seen the thing more gracefully done.—Detroit Journal.

JEALOUSY.

"Euphorbia," said the youth, dourly, "you love another man! Don't deny it! I have seen the evidence in black and white." "Alfred," she exclaimed, turning brightly pale, "can it be that you suspect me?" "Yes," said the youth, "I do."—Chicago Tribune.

KNOCKED DOWN BY MASKED MEN

Courthouse Engineer Smith Fiercely Assaulted.

FOUGHT THREE HIGHWAYMEN

FINALLY GOT HIS REVOLVER AND FIRED.

Frightened by the Shots the Assaulters Sprang Away From Smith and Disappeared Before Help Could Arrive.

Daniel Smith, night engineer at the Courthouse, was assaulted by three masked men at the northwest corner of the courthouse, about 1 o'clock Saturday morning. They knocked him down and were about to snatch his watch when he succeeded in getting his revolver from his pocket. He fired three shots in rapid succession. None of them took effect, but the highwaymen took fright and ran away.

Smith had left the basement of the courthouse for a moment on some errand. The men were standing on the north side of the building. As he came out from the east side they sprang on him together, one of them striking him a heavy blow in the face, which knocked him down. The attack was so sudden that he did not have time to draw his revolver.

The three men sprang on him before he could rise from the ground, and proceeded to plumb his arms. A fierce struggle ensued and Smith finally succeeded, in spite of the three to one odds, in getting his revolver from his pocket. He tried to aim at the largest of the men, but their efforts frustrated his attempts and the shots he fired went wild.

They nevertheless had their effect on the highwaymen, who though as yet no help appeared in sight, left their victim and ran away.

In the darkness and excitement, Smith was unable to get much idea of the appearance of the men and has no way to identify them. No one coming to his help, he made no effort to pursue them.

CHARGED WITH WATCH THEFT.

Theodore Gagnon Admits Taking a Timepiece From a Vest.

Theodore Gagnon, alias Harry J. Wilson, is charged in a warrant issued Saturday with the theft of a gold watch valued at $5, the property of H. Sterling Wilson, 1308 North Sixteenth street.

Gagnon was arrested by Detective Lee Killian of Chief Desmond's staff at Seventh and Pine streets. In his possession Mr. Wilson's watch was found. He admitted having taken the timepiece from the pocket of a vest hanging on the wall of the office of the Scumple Clock Co., 1308 North Sixteenth street. He said he did not know to whom the watch belonged.
